Weather Update (National Weather Service)

Impacts

- Strong winds will bring elevated to critical fire weather concerns to much of central and northern California through Monday night.
  - Gusty winds are expected across southern California through Monday night, but higher humidity will lessen fire weather concerns.
- Winds will become more offshore for Tuesday, though not as strong. These winds will bring continued fire weather concerns with much drier conditions expected.
  - Gusty winds will continue across southern California mountains into Wednesday.
- Additional areas of dry conditions and offshore winds are possible Thursday for central California and Friday for southern California.
